

CURTAINS

The hilarious new Broadway whodunit!

Drury Lane Theatre
Wednesday, April 29, 2009

Cost $62 per person Includes Lunch, show and transportation

A play within a play, CURTAINS takes place at Boston's Colonial Theatre in 1959. It's the opening night of Robin Hood of the Old West and this new musical could be a smash hit, if it weren't for the show's incredibly untalented leading lady. When she is murdered during the curtain call, Lieutenant Frank Cioffi is summoned to conduct an investigation. The lure of the theater soon becomes irresistible to the stage-struck detective and he finds himself just as dedicated to making the show a hit.

Sign up at Park Place
Minimum 20 needed for trip to take place.